Refutation of Abul Ala Maududi And What Salafi Scholers Said About Him { Part : 2 }

Rate this:

Abul Ala Maududi was the founder of the sect called Jamat-e-Islami, he wrote much about society, economy, and politics, He promoted an Islamic revolutionary modes of thought which led him to have a distorted view of Islam as being primarily a political system, overlooking basic Islamic fundamentals such as tawhid (monotheism) and Manhaj (Methodology) ... He further spoke in an exaggerated manner concerning the aspect of ruinership in Islam. Speaking about desiring authority in the land.

1. Maududi said, "So without the desire for authority, there is no meaning for calling to a particular philosophy, and there is no meaning for what is lawful and what is forbidden, nor for the prescribed laws." refer : Tajdeedul- deen, pg: 33

~~~ Our Response : though the Prophet of Islam (sallallahu alayhe wa sallam) clearly forbade desiring positions of authority, because craving after authority corrupts absolutely. Dr sallihaldeen ' akaha was asked said, "Do not ask for positions of authority, for if you are given it without asking, you will be left alone to discharge it, but if you are given it without requesting it, you will be helped [by Allaah] in it." refer : Sahih Muslim 1652

2. Maududi even went a step further by claiming that the principal goal of all of the Prophets was to establish a state: "Therefore the goal aspired for in the messengership of the Prophets is this world did not cease to be the establishment of the Islamic government upon the earth." refer : Tajdeedul- deen, p.61.

~~~ Our Response : Although Islam considers this to be an important matter, but it does not consider this to be the principal goal. Hence, it is a great error to overlook the true call of the Prophets (i.e. tawhid) while making the false claim that the principle goal which they aspired for was to establish an Islamic state. Maududi used to base his conclusions upon intellectual and political analogies and deductions as opposed to relying upon the Book and the Sunnah as clearly understood by the early Muslims as a source of guidance.

3. Regarding the Sayings of Hadees : Maududi's view on ahadith was also not clear as he said "ahadith were transmitted by few men to few men, and the maximum on can get them to be only hope of authenticity and not knowledge of certitude" refer : tarjuman al- Quran (abwe al awal 1965).

~~~ Our Response : this statement Maududi oppose the stand of Ahlus- Sunnah as Ahlus- Sunnah holds with certainty that Sahih hadith leads to certitude and specially those having mtaqi hil qabool, meanings that they have been accepted by the community without any objection

4. And Also he is having the Grave Errors regarding Denial of Dajjal
